Forgotten Proof of ID at Certification/Recertification/Add Baby Appointments

If the applicant has proof of identity, but forgot to bring it to the WIC appointment and provided proof of residence and income, complete a Provisional Certification. Issue one month of food benefits. Schedule a return visit or inform the participant to submit the missing proof of identity electronically within 30 days. Once the ID is provided, certify for the normal timeframe and issue remaining food benefits. If the missing proof of ID is not provided within the 30-day period, applicants are no longer presumed eligible and cannot receive WIC Benefits. The applicant will have to enroll again.

Note: During in-person benefits issuance for appointments that do not require a proof of ID, choose “No Proof of ID Required” from the Proof of ID drop down in the Signature Capture pop up.

Change of Name

Documentation is required when a participant reports a name change (marriage, divorce, or other legal name change) before changes can be made to the participant record. The proof can be any of the listed acceptable forms for proof of identification, as well as other forms of proof, such as an announcement in a newspaper or a court document.
